

ECKENER GREETED BY THROGS THAT LINE BROADWAY

Globe-Circling Dirigible Commander on Triumphant March

RECEPTION IS PLANNED

Army, Navy and Citizens Play Part in Tremendous Ovation

By Davis P. Sentner
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The welcome of Broadway—that thundering confetti-throwing accolade which New York reserves for visiting heroes—awaited Dr. Hugo Eckener today.

To the accompaniment of ringing cheers of millions and the barrage of torn paper with which this metropolis crowns its idols of the day, the commander of the globe-circling dirigible Graf Zeppelin was to make the famous march of triumph up lower Broadway to the City Hall for an official reception by Mayor James J. Walker.

Leaving the Battery at noon, the master mariner of the air who piloted the Graf on the pioneer aerial commercial circumnavigation of the globe, was to be accorded the greatest honor that is in the power of this city to give.

In recognition of his feat of skipping the gigantic Graf around the world in a little more than twenty-one days, a mammoth reception has been planned, which will start when Dr. Eckener arrives at the Battery.

The Army and the Navy as well as the citizens of New York will participate in the tremendous welcome to the man who made reality of the ancient dreams of world conquer of the skies.

Grover A. Whalen, New York's commissioner of police, is laying aside his badge of office for this one day, in order to become again the city's official greeter, as such he will depart on the municipal tug Macon from the Battery at 11 a. m. to meet the Zeppelin's commander and escort him to City Hall.

A committee of prominent German Americans will also be aboard the Macon to assist in the greeting. Following the march up Broadway Mayor Walker will receive the dirigible's commander on the steps of City Hall, to voice the welcome and admiration of the city to its distinguished guest.

Commissioner Whalen will also speak at the ceremony, and Dr. Eckener is slated to make a reply.

Meanwhile, preparations were being rushed at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., starting and finishing point of the round the world flight, for the Graf's return to its home base at Friedrichshafen, Germany.

The start has now been set for midnight, Saturday, and orders have been issued to the Zeppelin's crew to have all repairs effected and refueling completed by four o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

PASSENGER STEAMSHIP SINKS AFTER COLLISION

San Juan Goes Down Off The Pacific Coast; Several Lives Lost

MANY ARE SAVED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—The coastwise passenger steamship San Juan sank off Pigeon Point, thirty miles south of here, early today, a few minutes after colliding with the Standard Oil tanker S. C. T. Dodd.

The San Juan carried 55 passengers and a crew of 45. The Dodd had a crew of 35.

Indications that about 70 persons out of the 100 aboard had been rescued were contained in radio advices intercepted by San Francisco stations.

Radio messages told of the screams of the San Juan's passengers as lights of the oil tanker were thrown upon the sinking vessel from the Dodd. The latter ship was reported to have been sinking.

Life boats from the Dodd were reported to have picked up two children and Paul Hillman, second radio operator of the San Juan.

A boat from the motorship Frank Lynch was said to have picked up a load of passengers from the San Juan. The message reporting this stated the water was strewn with wreckage.

The wireless accounts of the wreck indicated the ships had been in doubt as to their exact positions and had inquired the location of any nearby vessels.

One message reported the Dodd's lifeboats were used to pick up passengers from the San Juan, indicating that there were no signs of lifeboats off the coast in that vicinity.

The region of Pigeon Point was enshrouded with fog. One lighthouse keeper said he had seen his fog signals since yesterday afternoon.

SEATTLE, Aug. 30.—The Standard Oil Tanker S. C. T. The Old Ship Runs Mighty Smoothly

This exclusive picture shows Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the world tour of the Graf Zeppelin, gazing pensively at the passing panorama, somewhere over Siberia. What thoughts are surging through his mind? How does he feel guiding his "Mind-Child" over the uncharted wastes to Tokio? This world tour was the culmination of his many successful flights across the Atlantic and over the Mediterranean. That it was eminently successful is shown by the records attained around the world in 21 days, of which 12 were actual flying time. Well might the nations of the world acclaim the feat of this man who pitted his skill and brains against nature's forces. Passengers on the trip could not praise him too highly for his genius, his uncanny skill and farsightedness, his absolute calm in face of danger and his faith in his ship?

PERKASIE FIRE ROUTS SCORE FROM HOTEL

Guests Flee by Windows, Fire Escapes and Ladders When Flame Burns Hotel

$15,000 DAMAGE DONE

PERKASIE, Aug. 30.—Twenty guests were forced to flee from the American House in their night clothes to escape a fire that caused $15,000 damage to the hotel here early yesterday.

The guests, including Joseph Bland, who was burned about the arms and hands, escaped through the windows, down the fire-escape and ladders hastily hoisted by residents of the town, as the fire was sweeping the second and third floors of the brick and plaster structure.

None of the patrons had time to dress or save their valuables. All their belongings were destroyed in the flames, believed to have started in the kitchen.

The American House, a three-story structure, is in the heart of the town, at 7th and Market streets.

Dr. J. J. Burton, the proprietor, and two employees had gone to Allentown late last night to buy supplies and returned while firemen were fighting the flames.

A domestic, Viola Kotten, discovered the fire at 2:30 a. m. and aroused Jack Hudson, a guest occupying a second-floor bedroom. The woman and Hudson ran through the corridors shouting "Fire!"

When the aroused guests rushed into the halls they found exits cut off by dense smoke and flames. Many of the guests rushed to the windows leading to the fire escape and made their way to the street. Some on the second floor climbed out to the window ledges and dropped to the ground while several on the third floor waited until ladders were hoisted.

Fire companies from Perkasia, Sellersville and Silverdale responded to the alarm. They saved the roof from being destroyed and prevented the fire from spreading through the first floor.

THE DEL-MAR-VA PENINSULA HAS BIG ATTRACTIONS

Pleasure Seekers Motor Thru Delightful Region; 1700-Mile Waterfront

RESORTS NUMEROUS

On Chincoteague Island Herd of Wild Ponies Roam About

Ocean strands, bays, rivers and woodlands combine to make the Del-Mar-Va peninsula a vacation ground that annually attracts thousands of pleasure seekers. Through this delightful region, with its 1700 miles of waterfront, the Keystone Automobile Club has mapped a motor tour intended as an enjoyable vacation jaunt.

"On the Atlantic side of the Del-Mar-Va peninsula are eighty-five miles of shore line containing numerous attractive resorts," says Russell B. Carty, representative of the club. "Excellent highways reach inland and connect with a system of main trunk motor roads that run the full length of the peninsula. Westward the same connecting roads lead to delightful resorts and fishing havens on the Chesapeake Bay."

From Bristol the tour leads down the Boulevard, following the Lincoln Highway over Hunting Park avenue to City Line. Continue over City Line avenue to Llanerch, Cross West Chester Pike, then turn left on Darby Road to Lansdowne, turn right on Baltimore Pike passing through Kennett Square to Avondale. Turning left into state route No. 41 the tourists pass through Hockessin and Newport to the village of State Road where the highway intersects with the famous Dupont Boulevard.

From State Road national route 13 passes through rolling farmlands on the way through Odessa and Smyrna to the state capital at Dover. With its quaint colonial public buildings and tree-lined streets, Dover bears witness to its historic past. From this city numerous attractive side trips can be taken to resorts on the Delaware Bay, Port Mahon and Bowers Beach being among them. From Dover, national route 113 is followed southward through Frederica to Milford. Here a left turn leads on a side trip to Lewes Beach, Midway Beach and Rehoboth. Southward from Dover, national route 113 carries the tourists through orchard country surrounding Georgetown to Frankford. From here side trips can be made to Ocean View and Bethany Beach.

Farther south the highway reaches Berlin, Md., where a left turn into national route 213 leads to Ocean City, one of the peninsula's most delightful ocean resorts. From Berlin the highway passes through Newark and Snow Hill to Pocomoke City. Here national route 13 is again met and can be followed clear south to Fisherman's Isle Light at the extreme tip of the cape. No trip into the southern part of the peninsula would be complete without a visit to the famous Chincoteague Island, which is reached by a left turn into a state route from Oak Hall. Here roam vast herds of wild ponies that are rounded up annually and disposed of at public sale. The ponies are said to be descendants of wild animals and strays who made their way to the island in colonial days.

From Oak Hall the journey continues south through Accomac, Belle Haven, Exmore and Franktown to Chilton. Here a side trip leads to Kikopeke at the end of the peninsula. From Chilton a right turn leads to Cape Charles an attractive bay resort. The homeward journey is made over the same highway as far as Pocomoke City, where a left turn leads to Princess Anne, one of the oldest towns in the country and where many interesting landmarks still stand. Northward the journey reaches Salisbury, where a network of fine highways lead to scores of attractive resorts. The remainder of the tour can be made over national route 13 that leads through the center of the state northward or national route 213 can be followed through Easton and Chestertown along the eastern shore.

Prizes for winners of the many events include cups, cash and merchandise.

The committee in charge consists of Ed Dougherty, chairman; "Al" Bauers, canoe and swimming events; A. V. Morris, Jr., outdoor races.

WILNO DELIVERY TRUCK AND AMBULANCE CRASH

St. Francis Car Was Speeding To Answer Emergency Call

BOY IS IN THE HOSPITAL

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 30.—Two persons riding in a light delivery truck were injured when the machine and the St. Francis Hospital ambulance, speeding on an emergency call, collided late yesterday afternoon at East State Street and Nottingham Way. The ambulance was badly damaged and unable to continue on the emergency trip but its passengers were unhurt.

James Wilno, aged 12, of 403 Commonwealth avenue, who was in the truck owned by Wilno Brothers, cleaners and dyers, of Chestnut and Morris avenues, sustained a laceration of the scalp and is under observation and treatment at St. Francis Hospital.

Tony Mangus, aged 23, of 129 Anderson street, driver of the truck, was treated for slight injuries and taken to Hamilton Township police headquarters, where he was released in custody of his employer pending arraignment today before Recorder Chance.

Dr. J. L. Flannery, hospital interne, and Ambulance Chauffeur William Byrnes, aged 25, who resides at the hospital, were hastening in the ambulance to the National Radiator Works, East State street and Whitehead Road, to attend an emergency appendicitis case. The hospital physician asserts that the ambulance siren was being sounded constantly from the time they left the institution.

The Wilno truck, approaching the ambulance from the right side on Nottingham Way, Dr. Flannery stated, apparently hesitated upon hearing the siren noise and then started across State street. The ambulance is said to have been rammed in the side and had to be towed away to a garage.

First taking the two from the truck to the hospital for treatment, Dr. Flannery here obtained another machine and returned to the radiator works on the emergency case.

Hamilton Township Police Sergeant Galas, with Officers Keegan, Richardson and McManus made an investigation.

Penn Valley School Will Be Closed This Season

FALLSINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Falls Township School Board and Principal S. A. Kelly deem it advisable to abandon the Penn Valley school for better gradation and classification of the pupils since the State Department of Public Instruction recommends consolidation whenever graded schools can be made to accommodate the pupils of an ungraded school. The Penn Valley school, however, will be used for the second and third grades until the alterations and addition to the Fallsington school are completed. Mrs. Lydia Lodge and Miss Laura Patterson, will have charge of the grades.

HASTILY-LOCATED AIR FIELDS

An aeronautical engineer declares that 300 new airports are projected in various sections of the United States. Not only cities but many towns and villages are building flying fields.

If commercial flying develops to any marked extent, the country will need a great many more than 300 new air fields. But the chances are that a considerable number of those first built will be badly located or otherwise unavailable for profitable use. They should not be located and built blindly.

The building of an airport is so noble an opportunity for the booster and the politician that it is certain not to be overlooked, and airports built for reasons connected with boosterism or politics rather than to supply a genuine need will never be anything but white elephants on the hands of the committees that build them. This is another direction whence John Smith, taxpayer, may confidently expect raids on his pocketbook.

Flying fields should be built and must be built if this country is to go in for commercial aviation on a large scale. But it is improvidence rather than providence to spend public money in establishing them at points which are far removed from logical air routes. In the period of railroad construction the rails preceded the stations, and it seems wise policy to delay laying out flying fields until the air routes are mapped out, at least.

There is no real need for airports in the center of cities, so, with some possible exceptions, cities and towns need be in no haste about acquiring suitable land. The fact that commercial flying is only profitable between large centers of population and over long distances leaves many communities out of the running as "stops" on future air routes.

WHEN YOUTH LEARNS

Education does not begin until one is 25 and continues until 85, if it ends at all, says a British novelist. Tell that to the sophisticated youth of the present. Is there a flapper who does not think she knows infinitely more than her mother, and is there a cigarette-smoking youth who does not think he can teach his father? While the older may know better, youth holds to its fancied superiority.

As for the diplomaed thousands, how dare even the boldest novelist question their education? Do not most of them nurse the illusion that they know all that is to be known? Age will teach them otherwise, but youth has to learn for itself. And when it has learned that its fancied wisdom was largely folly and that its imagined education was lacking in much of the real thing, it is no longer youth. That is the tragedy of it.

We can find nothing in Emily Post's valued manual of table behavior on how to remove a watermelon seed from the ear.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR. Bobby Doyle, framed by the Wilkes gang and sentenced to prison for twenty years for killing a policeman, is aided to escape from jail by his fiancée, Bebe. Bebe, with whom Bobby's sister, Mary, lives, Bebe is assisted by Johnny the Hop, a dope fiend, Inspector Wilmut and Bill Ryer, assigned to the case. Bobby is visited by Dapper Don Wilkes, leader of the gang, who offers to donate $5,000 to the family of the murdered policeman if they will fall to capture Bobby. But Bobby has already reached Bebe's apartment and plans are being made to convey him to his hiding place when a knock is heard at the door. Bobby hides himself in a hollowed-out sofa, and Mary, Bebe and Johnny pretend they are playing cards. —Now go on with the story.

CHAPTER IV.

VERY, very slowly the door opened, and Martha, the housemaid, peered inside. Her simple face, with its childish eyes and helpless expression, was toward them all. For a moment there was dead silence. Then Bebe threw down her cards and burst into laughter that was three parts relief.

She got up, went over to the sofa and lifted up the top.

"It's all right, sweetheart! It's only Martha. We were just telling you about her."

Bobby Doyle got up from the minute. She had seen him this brief while, that was enough. She had no right to the luxury of still more time with him, when that very time might mean danger. She could not be certain of anything, except that the man she loved was hunted like a wild animal.

The rest had obeyed his wish, Johnny, in a grudging fashion, Mary, silently, and Martha with her round, wondering, puzzled eyes with their childlike blandness of expression. His arms and kissed her now so that she no longer thought of danger, and her fears left her. She seemed to be living in a timeless world. He was asking her if she still loved him.

Her hand went up and touched his cheek, and she laughed softly, and tried to tell him in broken phrases all that he meant.

"It was worrying about that, wondering whether you'd stopped caring that nearly killed me up in that joint," he said. "I didn't mind the rest—I could stand everything else. But not being away from you—and wondering. It was awful."

"Oh, Bobby!" she breathed.

"Listen," he said at last, "they sent me up all right—with no evidence at all. I've figured it all out, Bebe. I was framed."

Before Bebe could speak, Big Myers burst into the room.

stamped hiding place. Martha met his inquiring gaze. He felt as if he were looking at a child; her own blank stare met his in the same way. "Is this I'm your father?" Martha asked Bebe after a little pause. "This is him!" Bebe told her with a smile. She saw the bundle under Martha's arm, and took it from her. "These are the clothes, aren't they? We're not going to forget this, Martha."

While Martha asked herself, re-remaining silent but deeply interested, the others continued to go over their plan in detail. It was soon settled. Johnny was to leave first. Then in about ten minutes, Martha and Bobby in his disguise could follow after him.

The Plan Was Out. Bobby was not too tall to be mistaken as the chance would be in his favor. Once in Johnny's secret hiding place, he would be safe. No one else except themselves was to hear of it. In a month the police would have their hands full with more important and pressing matters than the recapture of an escaped prisoner.

Bebe was on edge. She had thought that if Bobby ever did arrive, her fears, her nervousness would be over. But now if anything she was more nervous than before. The shock she had already had when Martha knocked on the door had struck her at high pitch. It seemed to her that in that moment of tense waiting, she had died more than a dozen times. Her very heart had stopped. Poor reckless Bobby, who turned no one's eyes on himself, who had been railroaded through to jail when he was innocent, who hadn't a chance in the world, if she didn't give it to him, she cared of him, see that from now on he made no mistakes. Her heart worked with her own passion. He was her sweetheart, and her child she thought, and without him life was no meaning. Without him, she did not want to go on living.

So it was now that while a very minute that she felt his nervousness and happiness to her, she was now in the danger to see him safely in this way.

Yet, when he turned to her again, right her arm, it seemed to her if her strength left her. She could not resist him, could not speak, as a child to the result.

"Do something for me all of you will you?"

"Sure, what is it?" Johnny said.

"Go out there in the hall and draw a curtain to tell to her I'm all right."

"Thank!" Bobby said.

She knew he was going to say that. Bobby had said that once but not let him waste a precious

LIVE where you work

Many people employed in Bristol are commuting to and from their work each day. This means an unnecessary expense and a waste of time. They must leave home earlier and return later than if they lived in the town where they are employed. They have less time for pleasure and less time to spend with their families than if they resided here.

Why commute?

Bristol as a place of residence offers every opportunity to be found in a large city. There are paved streets, sanitary sewers, good schools and churches of every denomination; periodic collection of ashes and garbage, police protection and ample space for outdoor recreation.

Housing is adequate

Housing facilities are adequate to meet the needs of all. There are dwellings here which will meet the needs of almost every family. Big six room houses with all modern conveniences including front porches and rear yards. They rent as low as $25 per month, and are comparable in type to those in the larger cities renting for nearly twice the amount.

You're a part of the community

If you live in Bristol you are a part of the community. You are not lost in the crowds of a great city where often times your next door neighbor doesn't know you. Live in Bristol and participate in its affairs and you will find life much more worth the living.

Houses - Stores - Apartments

Modern houses, small stores and a few apartments are available at attractive rentals. If you are interested, communicate with—

A lesson in Anchors

Think of your insurance as an anchor — holding your business and your property firm and fast against misfortune.

Some anchors hold. Others don't hold if the wind veers or storms blow up. They fail when needed most. Perhaps we are not expert in the matter of anchors, but we do know insurance.

When you intrust your insurance to this agency you have tied it to an anchor that will hold.

BOYS' CLUB CONTINUES ITS WINNING STREAK

CROYDON, Aug. 29.—Croydon Boys' Club continued its winning streak and defeated the Holmesburg Hawks before a large crowd this week.

The game was a fast one from start to finish, the locals hitting hard and steady. Trindle, Gleason and Baker led at bat, and all members of the team played a good game. Holland pitched another one of his wonderful games, holding the colored boys scoreless for five innings, and allowing only two hits. Two errors, a base on balls, and three hits gave the Hawks four runs in the sixth. One more run was marked up for the visitors in the ninth.

The Croydonites scored in the second on a single by Gleason, and a double by Baker. In the third a hit batter and four doubles netted Croydon players four more runs. Two runs were scored in the fifth, one in the seventh, and one in the eighth, making the Boys' Club runs total nine.

LOCAL "WORLD SERIES" OPENS HERE TOMORROW

By T. M. Jaro.

Bristol's World Series will begin Sunday afternoon on Sullivan's field. The A. O. H. team, winner of the first half, plays the Federals, winners of the second half of the local Twilight League contest.

The nine will play the best of a three games series and the victors will be judged the Bristol champions of 1929 and will receive one leg on the silver cup donated to the Bristol Twilight Baseball League by Connie Mack, whose "A's" are leading the American League.

Neither of the contesting teams have their names engraved on the loving cup. The Federals under the name of Leedom's won last year, but a difference in names means a new team and thus Mulholland loses his leg on the cup. The cup must be won three times by one club before it becomes in permanent possession of the team.

Manager Johnny Mulholland and Manager Jake Hoffman report that their men are in very good shape and predict an early victory in the series.

Taking the teams as a whole the Hibernians lead in batting with .329 for an average. The Federals have .305.

During the entire season, Mulholland's proteges clipped off 160 safe blows to the "Hibos" 143 safe swats.

Taking the batting averages man for man the Federals top the Hibernians five to four.

With Holden behind the plate the Hibernians have the advantage over either David or White. Holden is hitting at a .421 clip.

With Kohler, with his .368 average, or Brooks, with a .444 average, on the peak, the Federals best Lawler's .296 or Mangan's .304.

At first base Leyden has no trouble with Fine, of the Federals. The hitting is .421 to .196, respectively.

Mangan's hitting cannot match Dietrich's .326. Although, McDevitt, a former guardian of the keystone sack in socking them at .358.

Dugan and Riola are easily the winners in comparing them with J. Brady, Thompson or Dougherty.

In left field the teams have two of the best hitters in Bristol. Paul Barrett, of the Federals, has a .31 point lead on David Rodgers, who is batting even .500. Rodgers has participated in nineteen games and Barrett in twelve. If slugging will decide the issue Rodgers has the advantage. Both are fast runners on the bases.

Connors with a .366 batting mark is better than M. Cochrane with .315. Cochrane, however has played in twenty games while Connors, with a .366 batting mark is better than M. Cochrane with .315. Cochrane, however has played in twenty games while Connors has been in twelve. M. Cochrane leads the league in run scoring with twenty-five.

With either Coyle, Mangan, McCarry or McDevitt in right field, all being .300 hitters, the Hibernians capture the decision over DeRisi or H. Cochrane. Brooks would strengthen up Mulholland in this position. De Risi batted .286 with the Federals and .167 with St. Ann's. His total average is .242. H. Cochrane is also socking at .242.

Above is the teams ranked by their hitting. In fielding the teams are equal while the Federals have a more consistent pitching staff.

The game starts at 3:00 p.m.

Below is the teams' entire roster for the season and their averages:

A. O. H.	FEDERALS
E. McDevitt, 358	Barrett, 531
Rodgers, 500	M. Cochrane, 315
Leyden, 421	Dietrich, 326
